

Mahjong variant family tree

Roughly 55 documented rulesets. Indentation shows descent; dashed links are disputed. Click any node for its source.

Dashed connectors mark parentage that no source establishes. Solid connectors follow the Mahjong Wiki family tree and timeline, cross-checked against Tom Sloper's FAQ 2b variant catalogue.

- Known distortions in any tree layout of this material:
- Guangdong was influenced first by Hong Kong, later by Taiwanese; the arrow should run both ways.
 - Mainland regionals began on a Chinese Classical frame and later adopted HKOS's simplified scoring.
 - All Pairs and All Green flowed backwards from Western Mah Jong into most other modern rulesets.
 - The ten mainland nodes stand in for a hundred-plus real variants, most undocumented in English.
 - Several entries (Shenzhen, Tui Dao Hu, Fujian) rest on a single informant report.
 - No source establishes how Korean 104-tile mahjong descends from anything; the link is a placeholder.

References

VARIANT CATALOGUES AND LINEAGE FRAMEWORKS

- Sloper, Tom. "FAQ 2b: Identifying a Mah-Jongg Variant." Sloperama.
Tile counts, hand sizes, flower handling and scoring for roughly 50 named variants. Primary source for most leaf nodes in this chart.
<https://www.sloperama.com/mjfaq/mjfaq02b.html>
- Sloper, Tom. "The Mah-Jongg Family Tree." Sloperama.
Illustrated tree; source for the Mahjong Wiki / Khanhoo / dominoes root structure.
<https://www.sloperama.com/mjfaq/tree.htm>
- Sloper, Tom. "FAQ 11: History of Mah-Jongg." Sloperama.
Regional branching in the 1930s and 40s; Racster 1924 on Shanghai versus Hong Kong base scores; the author's own note that the tree illustration predates later findings.
<https://www.sloperama.com/mjfaq/mjfaq11f.html>
- Sloper, Tom. "Comparative Analysis of Early Mah-Jongg Forms." Sloperama.
Chinese Archaic, Late Qing and Pre-Classical rule comparisons.
<https://www.sloperama.com/mahjongg/analysis.html>
- Sloper, Tom. "Malaysian Mah-Jongg." Sloperama.
The 84-tile three-player and 164-tile four-player Malaysian games.
<https://www.sloperama.com/mjfaq/malaysian.html>
- Sloper, Tom. "FAQ 22: Chinese Official Scoring Explained." Sloperama.
Confirms the 1998 PRC's Sports Publishing House edition of the competition rules.
<https://sloperama.com/mjfaq/mjfaq22.html>
- Mahjong Wiki. "Family Tree and Timeline." mahjong.wikidot.com.
The decade-by-decade timeline and the branch structure this chart follows, including the caveat that each variant's evolution has been cross-cultural.
<http://mahjong.wikidot.com/>
- Mahjong Wiki. "Hong Kong Old Style Overview."
The 1950s simplification, removal of fu, the 1970s 3-3 system, and the late-1980s split into Taiwanese and Guangdong styles.
<http://mahjong.wikidot.com/rules:hong-kong-old-style-overview>
- Mahjong Wiki. "Chinese Official (MCR) Overview."
1998 release; the 1996 PRC push for sport recognition; Cantonese objections around the handover.
<http://mahjong.wikidot.com/rules:chinese-official-overview>

JAPANESE LINEAGE

- Yuria (Hassouhatsu Club). "A Brief History of Japanese Mahjong." Krakow Chombo Club, 2 Aug 2026.
Arushiiaru rules and scoring; Amano Daizou; the Houchi Shinbun serial of 11 Nov - 5 Dec 1952; the 1957 Tokyo rules and 1967 modern rules; bazoro; the Federation's 2016 acceptance of riichi.
<https://chombo.club/en/blog/2026/08/02/a-brief-history-of-japanese-mahjong/>
- Japanese Mahjong Wiki. "Japanese Mahjong." riichi.wiki.
Arrival in Japan in 1909; the post-1969 popularity surge; Tenhou.net in 2007.
https://riichi.wiki/index.php?title=Japanese_mahjong
- Wikipedia. "Japanese Mahjong."
The riichi declaration, dora, furiten and ordered discards.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Japanese_mahjong

WESTERN AND AMERICAN LINEAGE

- Wikipedia. "American Mahjong."
Racks, jokers, the Charleston, and the NMJL / AMJA annual card.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/American_mahjong
- MahjongCompare. "Mahjong History and Origin."
NMJL founders (Cecil, Meyerson, Jacobs, Potter), the 1937 Essex House meeting, and jokers entering the official rules in 1961.
<https://mahjongcompare.com/history>
- The Mahjong Line. "History of the Game."
Wright-Patterson origins among Air Force officers' spouses at Wright Field, Ohio.
<https://themahjongline.com/pages/history>
- The Charleston Club. "The History of American Mah Jongg."
Babcock's 1920 translation and the Parker Brothers / Milton Bradley licensing.
<https://thecharlestonclubaz.com/blogs/the-journal/the-history-of-american-mah-jongg-from-1920s-import-to-a-century-old-american-tradition>
- Grokopedia. "American Mahjong."
Jokers appearing in sets from the 1940s; the NMJL mandate from the 1960-61 season.
https://grokopedia.com/page/American_mahjong

CHINESE COMPETITION RULES

- Wikipedia. "Hong Kong Mahjong Scoring Rules."
Faan scoring, the common 3-faan minimum and the 13-faan ceiling.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hong_Kong_mahjong_scoring_rules
- Wikipedia. "World Mahjong Championship."
Mahjong certified as China's 255th sport in January 1998; unified rules codified that September.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/World_Mahjong_Championship
- World Mahjong Organization. Mahjong Competition Rules, English edition.
The 1998 ruleset itself.
http://mahjong-europe.org/portal/images/docs/mcr_EN.pdf
- The World of Chinese. "Tales of the Tile," November 2019.
The 1998 State Sports Commission publication of the Guobiao rules; WMO founded 2006.
<https://www.theworldofchinese.com/2019/11/tales-of-the-tile/>

INDIVIDUAL VARIANTS

- Mahjong International League. "Duplicate Mahjong Rules."
Prebuilt walls intended to remove luck for mind-sport recognition.
http://mahjong-mil.org/rules_dup.html
- Grad, Gladys. Siamese Mah Jongg. mahjongg.org.
The two-handed variant, 2015.
<https://mahjongg.org/>
- maque.games. "Tui Dao Hu."
Twelve ways of going out; more than one player may win.
<https://maque.games/post/323/>
- Gunplot. "Pusser's Mahjongg (Pusser's Bones)."
The Royal Navy adaptation of the Western game.
<http://www.gunplot.net/mahjongg/mahjongg2.html>
- Stanwick, Michael and Hongbing Xu. "Flowers and Kings." themahjongtileset.co.uk.
Early ma que tile-set research underlying the Hua Maque and Wang Maque material.
<http://www.themahjongtileset.co.uk/tile-set-history/flowers-and-kings-an-hypothesis-of-their-function-in-early-ma-que/>

Primary sources cited within the above, not consulted directly for this chart:

Wilkinson (c. 1889-95) on Chinese Archaic rules and Kun Pai cards; Culin (1924) on Khanhoo; Li Boyuan, Officialdom Unmasked (1903-05); Mauger (1915); J.P. Babcock, Rules for Mah-Jongg (1920); Olga Racster (1924); R.F. Foster, Twenty Point Mah Jong (1924); C.T. Dobree, Gambling Games of Malaya (1955); Amano Daizou's rules serialised in Houchi Shinbun (Nov-Dec 1952); and Chinese Mahjong Competition Rules, People's Sports Publishing House (1998), ISBN 7-5009-1630-2.

All web sources retrieved 13 September 2026. Where Sloperama and the Mahjong Wiki disagree, this chart follows the Mahjong Wiki, whose material is more recent. Tile counts and hand sizes come from Sloperama, the only catalogue that records them systematically.

Appendix: where the Mahjong Wiki's information comes from

The Mahjong Wiki supplies the lineage structure of this chart, and it carries no bibliography, no about page, and no per-claim citations. It is also a rebuild: the author states the earlier wiki had become extremely outdated and links an archived snapshot of it. What follows is an attempt to trace the material anyway. None of this is confirmed by the author. It is the set of sources the wiki's distinctive claims can be matched to, plus an honest account of what cannot be traced at all.

WHAT THE WIKI ITSELF CREDITS

- The Hong Kong Old Style scoring page is the only page that names anything. It sets its fan lists out in three labelled columns: HKOS, "Let's Mahjong!", and "Perlmen & Chan".
- The same page appeals to "several Cantonese sources" without naming them, saying they agree that the conditions in "Let's Mahjong!" represent the New Chapter standard.
- It names three Cantonese fan-list traditions with almost no English-language presence: New6 (六獨), New18 (十八番), and a larger uncodified set the Hong Kong New Style page calls 無奇不有.
- Its core taxonomy, Clear Chapter (清章) and New Chapter (新章), is Cantonese terminology rather than a Western coinage. This is the strongest single sign that the author works from Cantonese material.
- It credits Alan Kwan for Zung Jung, and names British Mahjong as the origin of several imported fan, including the Jewel Dragons and Seven Pairs.
- Its diagrams are served from a Blogger account, so the author keeps a blog; the wiki never links it.

SOURCES THE WIKI NAMES OR CAN BE MATCHED TO

- Perlmen, Samuel K. and Mark Kai-Chi Chan. The Chinese Game of Mahjong. Book Marketing Ltd., Hong Kong, 1979. ISBN 962-211-0169.
The only book the wiki cites by name, used as a whole fan-list column. Sloper's book FAQ describes it as covering both Old Style and New Style as played in Hong Kong, which is precisely the distinction the wiki's taxonomy is built on. This is the likeliest backbone of its HKOS material.
https://www.goodreads.com/book/show/658815.The_Chinese_Game_of_Mahjong
- "Let's Mahjong!" ruleset, as tabulated on the Mahjong Wiki HKOS scoring page.
Cited as a second fan-list column and treated as the representative New Chapter standard. The wiki describes it as the transition from HKOS to Guangdong Style. It is a ruleset, not a scholarly source, and the wiki gives no publication details for it.
<http://mahjong.wikidot.com/rules:hong-kong-old-style-scoring>
- Cantonese fan lists: New6 (六獨), New18 (十八番), and 無奇不有.
Named on the HKOS and Hong Kong New Style pages. These are traditions internal to Hong Kong play. The wiki's own caveat is that NEW18 may not in fact be standardised at all.
<http://mahjong.wikidot.com/rules:hong-kong-new-style-overview>
- Kwan, Alan. Zung Jung scoring system.
Named on the wiki and independently documented; the World Series of Mahjong used a modified form of it.
<http://mahjong.wikidot.com/rules:zung-jung-overview>
- Chinese Mahjong Competition Rules, People's Sports Publishing House, 1998.
Underlies the wiki's MCR pages, though it cites no edition.
http://mahjong-europe.org/portal/images/docs/mcr_EN.pdf
- British Mahjong scoring, as tabulated on wiki's own Western Mah Jong page.
The wiki attributes All Green, Seven Pairs and the Jewel Dragons to this tradition flowing back into Chinese rulesets. No book is named.
<http://mahjong.wikidot.com/rules:western-mah-jong-scoring>
- Archived earlier version of the Mahjong Wiki, 30 March 2025.
The author's own predecessor site, linked from the current front page. Useful for seeing which claims are new to the rebuild and which were carried over.
<https://web.archive.org/web/20250330002121/http://mahjong.wikidot.com/>

WHAT REMAINS UNTRACEABLE

- The decade-by-decade timeline, which is the single most load-bearing thing this chart takes from the wiki, carries no citation on any page. The 1950s gambling-house adoption of Clear Chapter, the 1970s 3-3 system, and the late-1980s move to additive scoring are asserted and never sourced.
- The Japanese pages cite nothing whatsoever. One glossary entry still reads "[coming soon]".
- The Nanyang, Korean and mainland claims carry no sources either, which is at least consistent with the wiki openly flagging those as unresolved questions rather than presenting them as settled.
- Sourcing is therefore uneven by region, not absent: Cantonese material is credited, everything else is not. Weight the wiki accordingly, and weight this chart accordingly.

WHERE TO CHECK THE WIKI INDEPENDENTLY

- Sloper, Tom. "FAQ 3: Books About Mah-Jongg."
Identifies Perlmen & Chan in full and lists the other Hong Kong Old Style books: Constantino, Li, Tsui, Lo.
<https://sloperama.com/mjfaq/mjfaq03.html>
- rec.games.mahjong newsgroup archive.
Where much of the English-language variant research was originally argued out, and the origin of several single-informant reports in Sloper's catalogue.
<https://groups.google.com/g/rec.games.mahjong>
- Tsui, Cofa. International Mahjong Rules, 1998.
An independent Hong Kong Old Style codification, useful as a check on the wiki's fan tables.
<http://www.cofatsui.com/mahjong.html>
- Cantonese Wikipedia: 香港麻雀.
Cantonese-language treatment of the Hong Kong game, in the register the wiki appears to draw from.
<https://zh-yue.wikipedia.org/wiki/%E9%A9%99%E8%B8%AF%E9%BA%BB%E9%B%80%E8%83%A1%E7%89%8C%E5%88%97%E8%A1%A8>